DEPARTMENT OF WORKS.

"BOILER INSPECTION ACT."

NOTICE is given that by Order in Council No. 1208, approved June 14th, 1947, the "Boiler Inspection Act" has been amended as follows:—

REGULATIONS RELATING TO THE EXAMINATIONS OF ENGINEERS.

Pursuant to the provisions of the "Boiler Inspection Act" and amending acts the following regulations respecting the examination of candidates for certificates of competency as engineers have been adopted, and become effective immediately after publication in The British Columbia Gazette:—

1. A candidate for a certificate of competency as a steam engineer shall, in his own handwriting, complete an application on the form prescribed by the Chief Inspector and forward same to him, together with the prescribed examination fee.

2. A candidate shall be a Canadian citizen having a satisfactory knowledge of the English language, both spoken and written.

3. Copies of written testimonials certifying to a candidate's character, knowledge, and experience, as prescribed for the particular grade of certificate sought, shall accompany the candidate's application. The originals of such testimonials shall be produced by the candidate at the time of his examination and at any other time on request from the Chief Inspector. Each testimonial shall state the working-pressure and the horse-power of the plant where the candidate worked, and shall be signed by the employer or chief engineer.

4. Testimonials covering time spent as an apprentice or mechanic in a machine-shop shall deal with the candidate's conduct, ability while employed, nature of work done by him, the amount of time spent on making and repairing steam-boilers and engines and on other work, and shall be signed by the employer.

Testimonials covering a candidate's period of service as an engineer or fireman shall deal with his experience, ability, and general conduct, and shall be signed by the employer or chief engineer.

When testimonials from employers or chief engineers are not procurable, evidence of machine-shop time or service, satisfactory to the Chief Inspector, may be submitted in the form of testimonials from creditable persons having knowledge of the facts.

5. When machine-shop service has been performed in a place where steam boilers and engines are not made or repaired, but the class of work done is similar to that required in steam boiler or engine making, such machine-shop service may be accepted in lieu of engine-room service, provided the candidate has served at least one year as engineer in addition to that required for the grade of certificate sought.

6. An additional three years or more service in a machine-shop engaged in the manufacture or repair of steam boilers and engines may be accepted in lieu of one year's engine-room service. If the candidate has been employed as a draughtsman on the design of steam-power plants and equipment for two years or over, his total period of service while so employed may be accepted in lieu of one year's machine-shop service, provided that in either case the Chief Inspector is satisfied that such service has fitted the candidate for the class of certificate for which the application was made.

7. Any person who makes or assists in making any false representation for the purpose of procuring for himself or for any other person a certificate of competency shall be guilty of an offence under the Act, and shall be liable, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding $100.

8. Any certificate of competency granted on improper or insufficient evidence, or through error, shall be forthwith cancelled by the Chief Inspector. If, however, the evidence produced entitles the candidate to a certificate of lower grade, this may be issued to him.

9. If a candidate fails to pass an examination as to his practical knowledge, he shall not present himself for re-examination until he produces proof of three months' further service following date of failure. If he fails in arithmetic or elementary theory, he may be re-examined at any convenient time.

10. When a candidate who is already the holder of a certificate of competency as an engineer under the Act qualifies for a higher grade of certificate, he shall, on request, deliver up to the Chief Inspector his certificate of the lower grade for cancellation.

11. In addition to the foregoing requirements pertaining to qualification for a certificate of competency, a candidate shall pass the examination and comply with the qualifications herein prescribed for the particular grade of certificate sought, as follows:—

(a.) First-class Engineer.—The candidate shall have been in possession of a second-class certificate for at least twelve months. He shall have served at least five years as engineer in charge of a shift in a steam plant of not less than 500 horse-power, or he shall have served as a mechanic in a machine-shop on the construction and repairs of steam boilers and engines for three years, and three years as engineer in charge of a shift of a steam plant of not less than 500 horse-power.

The period served as assistant chief engineer of a steam plant over 900 horse-power shall be considered equal to that served as shift engineer.

A candidate graduated in mechanical engineering from a university whose standards are approved by the Chief Inspector, and who has been in possession of a second-class certificate for at least twelve months, during which period he has been employed as engineer in the practical operation of a steam plant of not less than 500 horse-power, shall be eligible for examination for first-class certificate.

He shall possess a thorough knowledge of the construction and working of the different kinds of boilers and engines in all their details, as well as turbines, internal-combustion engines, air and ammonia compressors. He shall understand electrical generators and alternators sufficiently well to be able to intelligently operate such classes of machines. He shall be acquainted with the general principles of applied mechanics and possess a knowledge of the theory of strain and stress. He shall also be acquainted with the theory of heat and be able to solve questions relating to temperatures, pressures and volumes, power, economy, and duty in connection with boilers and engines.

The examination for first-class engineer shall be both written and oral, and shall be set by the Chief Inspector.

(b.) Second-class Engineer.—A candidate shall be at least twenty-two years of age, and he shall have served at least four years as engineer of a high-pressure steam plant of not less than 250 horse-power; or he shall have served as a mechanic at least three years in a machine-shop on the construction or repair of steam boilers and engines, and at least two years as engineer of a high-pressure steam plant of not less than 250 horse-power.

Maintenance on boilers and engines in a power plant over 450 horse-power may be considered in lieu of shop time, provided that the class of work performed as maintenance is satisfactory to the Inspector of the district in which the time was served.

Two years' maintenance shall be equal to one year of service in a machine-shop.

A candidate graduated in mechanical engineering from a university approved by the Chief Inspector, who has been employed two years in a steam plant, or one year on the construction or repair of steam boilers and engines, and one year in a steam plant as engineer in charge of a shift, shall be eligible for examination for a second-class certificate if such service was in a steam plant of 250 horse-power or over.

He shall possess an adequate knowledge of the main facts relating to combustion and the generation of steam. He shall understand the construction and working of the different kinds of boilers and engines, and have a sound knowledge of horse-power calculations, coal and water consumption. He shall also understand the operation of steam-turbines, electric generators, air and ammonia compressors, and be able to maintain such equipment in good working condition. He shall have a general knowledge of practical mathematics.

The examination for second-class engineer shall be both written and oral, and shall be set by the Chief Inspector.

(c.) Third-class Engineer.—A candidate shall be at least twenty years of age, and shall have served at least two years as engineer of a high-pressure steam plant of not less than 50 horse-power, or two years as fireman and one year as engineer; or he shall have served two years as fireman and two years as oiler in a high-pressure steam plant over 50 horse-power; or he shall have served as a mechanic two years in a machine-shop on the construction and repair of steam boilers and engines and one year as engineer on a high-pressure steam plant of not less than 50 horse-power.

A candidate graduated in mechanical engineering from a university approved by the Chief Inspector, or school of technology, who has been employed one year in a steam plant, or six months on the construction or repair of steam boilers and engines and six months in a steam plant, shall be eligible for examination for a third-class certificate.

A candidate shall be familiar with various types of boilers and engines in general use. He shall understand incrustation, pitting, and corrosion in boilers and how to combat such. He shall have an adequate knowledge of condensers, air-pumps, and feed-water heaters, also be familiar with the simple operation of electric motors.

He shall also be able to answer problems in elementary practical mathematics.

The examination for third-class engineer shall be both written and oral, and shall be set by the Chief Inspector.

(d.) Fourth-class Engineer.—A candidate shall be at least eighteen years of age, and shall have served at least one year as fireman or engineer of a high-pressure steam plant over 3 horse-power, or he shall have served as a mechanic at least twelve months in a machine-shop on the construction or repair of steam engines and boilers and six months as fireman or engineer of a high-pressure steam plant over 3 horse-power.

A candidate shall write a legible hand and understand the operation of the feed-pump, safety-valve, pressure-gauge, and water-gauge, and he shall understand the importance of keeping boilers clean inside and out, also the principles of firing and the general care of engines and boilers, including the setting of slide-valves.

His knowledge of these subjects shall be tested by written and oral examinations, and shall be set by the Chief Inspector.

(e.) Engineer with Temporary Certificate.—A candidate for a temporary certificate shall furnish evidence by testimonials as to his character and habits of life, and shall be able to pass an examination, oral or written, to the satisfaction of the Inspector regarding the operation of the particular steam plant for which he requires the certificate.

(f.) Engineer with Service Certificate.—A present holder of a service certificate shall comply with these regulations if he becomes a candidate for any certificate other than the grade for which he has a certificate of competency.

(g.) Engineer with Special Certificate.—For Low-pressure Heating Plant: A candidate for such engineer's certificate shall have had six months' experience as engineer or fireman in a steam plant and shall have a practical knowledge of the operation of a low-pressure steam plant. His knowledge shall be tested by written and oral examinations set by the Chief Inspector.

(h.) For High-pressure Heating Plant: A candidate for such engineer's certificate shall have had one year's experience as fireman or engineer of a high-pressure steam plant over 3 horse-power and shall have a practical knowledge of the operation of such a plant. His knowledge shall be tested by written and oral examinations set by the Chief Inspector.

(i.) For Logging-donkey: A candidate for such engineer's certificate shall have had twelve months' experience as engineer or fireman on a steam logging-donkey, and the competency and experience of the applicant shall be certified to by the owner or superintendent of a steam-powered logging camp in British Columbia. The applicant shall have a practical knowledge of a logging-donkey and its operation, and his knowledge shall be tested by written and oral examinations set by the Chief Inspector.

(j.) For Creamery Steam Plant not exceeding 40 Horse-power, or for Traction-engine or Road-roller, or for Portable Threshing-machine: These three certificates will no longer be issued, but engineers holding any one of these certificates may continue to operate a steam plant for which the certificate was issued.

12. The time and place of any examination of a candidate for a certificate of competency as an engineer shall be fixed by the Chief Inspector or by an Inspector authorized for such purpose by the Chief Inspector. The method of conducting examination and the nature of questions asked a candidate shall be determined by the Chief Inspector or such authorized Inspector, who may require intelligent drawings or sketches of some machinery part.

13. When the classification of a steam plant is changed due to an increase in horse-power or to changed regulations, it shall not be compulsory for the engineer to immediately obtain a certificate of the grade required due to the change in classification, provided that he has been in full charge for at least three consecutive years immediately previous to the change, but he shall present himself for the necessary examination within the time-limit set by the Chief Inspector.

14. The words "high-pressure steam plant," where used in the regulations, shall mean any steam plant not included in the definition of "low-pressure heating plant" contained in the Act.

15. Duration of Certificates.—Every certificate, unless otherwise stated therein, shall be granted for life, or during good conduct, but if it is proved before the Steam-boiler Inspection Committee that the holder of any certificate granted under the provisions of this Act, or of some former Act of the Legislature relating to steam-boilers, is guilty of negligence, or has refused or failed to comply with any of the provisions of this Act, the certificate may be suspended or revoked by the Board upon the report of the Committee, or it may be cancelled in consequence of the findings of a Coroner's inquest, and it may also be suspended or cancelled by the Board for any other cause which is considered sufficient by the Board.

16. (1.) Posting of Engineers' Certificates of Competency.—Every engineer holding a certificate granted under this or some former Act shall have it framed and protected by glass, and shall keep it posted in some conspicuous place in the engine or boiler room of the steam plant of which he is in charge, or in a place directed by an Inspector, and shall remove this certificate from the place where it is posted when he ceases to be in charge of that plant; and if any engineer violates any provision of this section, the Chief Inspector may suspend the engineer's certificate for such period as the Chief Inspector thinks fit.

(2.) Upon the recommendation of an Inspector the Chief Inspector may permit an engineer to take charge of not more than three low-pressure heating plants if in the opinion of the Inspector the distance between the plants is not too great for their personal operation by the same engineer, and in that case the posting of the engineer's certificate under subsection (1) shall be in a place directed by the Inspector.

17. Duplicate Certificates.—If any engineer proves to the satisfaction of the Board that he has, without fault on his part, lost his certificate, or that it has been destroyed, and produces a sworn affidavit to this effect, the Board may, upon receipt of two dollars and fifty cents, cause a duplicate of the original certificate to be made, certified, and delivered to him.

18. Duty of Engineers to report Change of Positions.—It shall be the duty of every engineer who assumes charge of a steam-boiler or vacates his position as engineer to notify the Chief Inspector of the fact, and any failure of the engineer to comply with this provision shall be punishable by a suspension of his certificate for such period as the Chief Inspector thinks fit.

19. (a.) A first-class engineer shall be qualified to take charge of any power plant.

(b.) A second-class engineer shall be qualified to take charge of a steam plant not exceeding 900 horse-power, and he shall also be qualified to act as second or assistant engineer of any steam plant.

(c.) A third-class engineer shall be qualified to take charge of any steam plant not exceeding 450 horse-power; he shall also be qualified to act as second or assistant engineer of any steam plant not exceeding 900 horse-power. He shall also be qualified to take charge of any low-pressure heating plant.

(d.) A fourth-class engineer shall be qualified to take charge of any steam plant not exceeding 100 horse-power; he shall also be qualified to act as second or assistant engineer of any steam plant not exceeding 450 horse-power. He shall also be qualified to take charge of a low-pressure heating plant up to 150 horse-power.

(e.) A temporary-certificated engineer shall be qualified to take charge of the steam plant mentioned on the face of his certificate, and no other.

(f.) An engineer with a special certificate shall be qualified to take charge of any type of steam plant mentioned on the face of his certificate, such as low-pressure heating plant not exceeding 75 horse-power, high-pressure heating plant not exceeding 50 horse-power, logging-donkey, or any other type of steam plant for which special service and examination is from time to time provided for in the regulations.

(g.) A charge of ten cents shall be made for copies of this section of the regulations.
